

#ChemicalsofConcern

BPA is found in the epoxy resin that lines food cans.

Health Concerns:
The National Institutes for Health (NIH), U.S EPA, and multiple states have raised concerns that BPA is an endocrine disrupter. It has been linked to developmental problems in children, abnormal brain development, and reproductive issues.

LIKE to support the Lautenberg-Gillibrand #SafeChemicalsAct to require that chemicals found in everyday products are tested for safety.